

> Blogs > Read Blog

Asia-Pacific

Check out this week's top Asia-Pacific news on the Asia Pacific Headline page.

Follow RoF

For all the breaking news, follow RoF on Twitter and Facebook

Results

Find out how your firm did in the RollOnFriday UK Firm of the Year and Australian Firm of the Year surveys 2012.

Make Me...

...an offer I can't refuse. Put your details on Make Me An Offer and let top law firms come and offer you jobs. It's confidential, anonymous and free.

Find a Job

Blogs

A&O and Freshfields - battle of the bands

Report as offensive | Rate it | 0

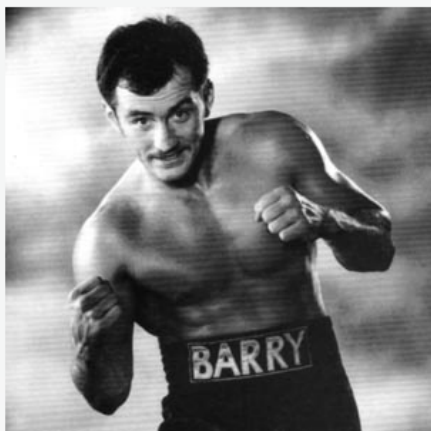

Matthew @ RoF

23 March 2012 12:41

Or at least battle of the choirs.

Both firms are fielding singers for a charity concert at Sadler's Wells on 29th April. They're being joined by choirs from the Financial Times and Royal Bank of Canada, 100 London schoolchildren and the National Symphony Orchestra. So together they should make some noise...

It's in aid of the Anchor House Home and Hope Appeal, a project which turns around the lives of East London's homeless. The charity's patron is Barry McGuigan, the boxing champion, and apparently he'll be turning up on the night to perform some numbers with his band.

See fellow lawyers sing Carmina Burana, hob nob with a famous pugilist and help the homeless. It's got to be done. Get your tickets from www.sadlerswells.com/show/Gala-Concert-for-Anchor-House or call the box office on 0844 412 4300.

All Blog Entries

Send to a Friend

BOOKMARK