

Move-On Flats at Anchor House

Caritas Anchor House, which provides accommodation and support for those escaping homelessness, celebrated the opening of their new facilities - 25 flats to ease the transition into independent living and educational and community spaces. The development is part of the Home and Hope Appeal, to which many parishioners have donated. Mgr John Armitage, Rector of Walsingham, said "Caritas Anchor House is a symbol of the commitment of the Church and charitable bodies to address the tragedy of homelessness that we face every day." Bishop Alan blessed the new flats, saying, "250 people make their way through Caritas Anchor House each year, and there is a real sense of community."

The ultimate aim is for residents to lead independent, fulfilling lives, through exploring employment opportunities and harnessing potential. While so much has been achieved, £2.5million is left to raise to complete the development and create a lasting legacy for the community.
